FRIDAY APRIL

AMERICANS OR WHAT?

Under the above head the Examiner publishes an editorial directly to the point and which strikes a chord that will find a ready response in the hearts of the Amer- Friday Evening, May 1st, 1891. ican people. We indorse every word contained therein, and take pleasure in laying before our readers the following extracts:

"The present time seems to be a good one for definitely settling our relations with Europe. The New Orleans incident has been followed by the Pennsylvania riot, in which the surviving Italians, Hungari ans and Slavs with one voice appeal to their respective native lands for redress against the country that has given them an asylum and a living. The tone of Europeon press is arrogant and unfriendly. Signor D'Arco the Ital-Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, tells us that if our Constitudoes not suit his Government we must mend it. Italian papers in the United States, edited by men who were born under the rule of a swarm of despotic princelings, sneer at that marvelous instrument which Gladstone called the greatest work ever struck off at any one time by the hand and brain of man, and under whose wise provisions we have enjoyed liberty and order for a hundred years.

"At first this sort of thing was received with amused contempt, but as it kept on the national feeling began to grow, first impatient and then angry. It has reached such a point now that the welfare of our natualized fellow-citizens demands that they listen to some plain words. There are more foreigners in the United States than in any other country in the world. There are enough of them to constitute a Europeon nation of the second class. In the strictest sense of the term, they are enjoying the hospitality of this Government. We take them, as it were, into our national home. We give them work at three times the pay they could have earned in their own country, and we let them take part in the management of our affair and the expenditure of our taxes. We do not begrudge these things, but we do insist that they carry certain obligations. We have not asked foreigners to come here to favor us; we allow them to come as a favor to themselves, and when they are here we demand that they shall not turn against the country that shelters them.

The original merit of the New Orleans affair has now droped quite out of sight. A much more momentous matter, and one upon which there are no divisions among native and naturalized citizens, is now at the front. That is the question of our right to manage our own affairs in our own way. Our Constitution suits us, and when we get ready to change it we shall do so without waiting for foreign advice. We do not in terfere with Europe, and we shall not tolerate European interference with us. Whether it be one foreign power or all the powers of the Old World combined that may attempt to dictate to us our answer will be the same, and it will not be effected in the least by the number of ironclads that might be sent against New York."

Nast is poking his sharp pencil through the hide of Chauncy Depew, and the latter's life has suddenly become miserable. Depew has been indicted for being a Director of a railroad when an accident occcured. He says that this is absurd, as he is a director of cured. Diabetes, Headache, Conscores of roads. All of which shows that he has too many irons in the fire and has more roads under him than he can keep in good order.

"The County Fair" the play that ran for more than three years in New York, is the subject of "G. B.'s" dramatic criticism in the Argonaut of April 13, which is worth reading and may be taken as the Western judgement on a play that has a really marvelous success in Arlington Parlors, Nos. 10 and 11. trouble to show goods.
